Westerberg & Partners announces its further expansion with latest recruitment

Specialist IP and dispute resolution firm Westerberg & Partners strengthens its IP practice with the arrival of Wendela Hårdemark as partner with the law firm.

Wendela Hårdemark brings more than 15 years of experience in IP and marketing law and is known for her skills in litigation, arbitration and mediation. She is specialized in patent and copyright law and provides strategic advice to clients relating to the protection, management and commercialization of innovations and intangible assets. With a solid basis of assisting clients within the pharmaceutical and medtech field she also provides advice regarding regulatory matters.

Henrik Wistam, head of intellectual property at Westerberg & Partners, comments: "It is with great pleasure that we welcome Wendela to the partnership. During the last years we have been focused on further growing our capabilities to meet the demand for our IP expertise, as our clients grow through innovation and explore the value in their IP assets. Wendela's knowledge and expertise is a natural fit for our firm and her addition to the team ensures that we can continue to provide the highest standard of service and value to our growing client base."

Wendela Hårdemark says: "I am honored to be joining the Westerberg team, which has a great reputation in IP and dispute resolution. The combination of the firm's expertise and its continued ambition to excel in IP were important factors in my decision. I look forward to developing additional opportunities with the team and its global network."
